Municipal Bonds Litigation Consulting and Expert Witness Services: Mr. Doty is skilled and experienced in municipal finance in both financial and legal capacities. Applying his background and knowledge, Mr. Doty has served for 30 years as a municipal bond expert witness and litigation consultant to lawyers on a broad spectrum of issues concerning the municipal securities market, including among other things: the structure, documentary terms, implementation and constitutional, statutory, and documentary priority of a wide variety of state and local government securities (*see examples in the Note below of varying types of municipal securities); state, local and private projects and programs funded with municipal securities; federal and state assistance programs; municipal bond market customs, practices and standards of care; disclosure, due diligence, fiduciary and regulatory roles and responsibilities of parties in primary offerings, the secondary market, workouts and other transactions in municipal securities; municipal securities law and regulation; and municipal finance in general.

Note: Various categories of municipal securities include, among others, the following: limited and unlimited tax-, assessment- and revenue-secured municipal bonds, notes, special revenue obligations, senior and subordinated obligations, leases, appropriation obligations, moral obligations, general fund obligations, certificates of participation, variable interest rate obligations (VRDOs and VRDNs), installment purchase agreements, pooled securities, and obligations of public-private partnerships.

With the advent of municipal advisor regulation, the fiduciary duties of municipal advisors to municipal bond issuers under federal statutory law and of municipal advisors to issuers and obligated persons under state common law have gained significantly enhanced focus and emphasis in the municipal bond market. The overall fiduciary duty concept includes, among other things, the duty of care and the duty of loyalty.

As a former financial and municipal advisor for more than 20 years, and as a lawyer who has taught and studied fiduciary duty at many points throughout his career, Mr. Doty is well-qualified to assist counsel in understanding the roles and responsibilities of financial advisors and other municipal advisors. As a municipal advisor expert witness and litigation consultant, Mr. Doty is familiar with Dodd-Frank's fiduciary duty and antifraud provisions applicable to municipal advisors, MSRB rules, such as Rules G-17 and G-42, and key market resources that provide substantial guidance to counsel in this complex area with which many counsel may not be intimately familiar.

In the process, Mr. Doty has consulted as a finance industry expert in approximately 160 matters in three dozen states, including when appropriate, as a forensic analyst or municipal securities expert witness. He has testified as a finance industry expert witness in depositions and at trial approximately 80 times. Mr. Doty is a member of the Securities Experts' Roundtable.

Mr. Doty has consulted as an industry expert with or served as an expert witness for legal counsel regarding the roles and responsibilities of municipal bond and other municipal securities issuers and officials, municipal advisors, private borrowers, underwriters, bond counsel, trustees, investors and governmental enforcement agencies

Among other representations, Mr. Doty has served as a consultant or expert witness for counsel to the Division of Enforcement of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (as well as in opposition to the Division), the California Department of Corporations, the Office of the California Attorney General, a United States Attorney, a District Attorney, and by video, a New Mexico special legislative investigative subcommittee in an impeachment proceeding.

Unique Combination of Legal and Financial Skills: Mr. Doty's unique combination of skills and experience enables him to work with litigation counsel regarding both financial and legal subject matter relevant to industry practices. In the process, he is able to assist lawyers seeking to enhance their own knowledge in areas associated with finance in which they may not be fully conversant.

For example, given his experience as both an underwriter and financial advisor and as a bond, underwriter and disclosure counsel, Mr. Doty is able to bridge the financial and legal aspects of practices in municipal finance transactions, as well as to provide support respecting the complexities of municipal disclosure, due diligence and fiduciary duties in the context of unique municipal securities market characteristics, responses to regulation, and related considerations.

Mr. Doty has the ability to explain complex financial concepts to lawyers and lay people using communication skills developed through his speaking and teaching experience over several decades. Such assistance also may be valuable in the conduct of settlement negotiations, arbitrations and mediations.

Consulting Services: Initially in his engagements, Mr. Doty provides independent consulting services to counsel on municipal securities industry or municipal bond market subject areas within Mr. Doty's competence relating to litigation, as requested by counsel.

In addition, if counsel so desires, and Mr. Doty agrees, Mr. Doty will endeavor to form expert opinions on specific questions identified by counsel. In that connection, Mr. Doty will endeavor, if possible, to form, and inform counsel regarding, independent opinions and to provide information to counsel.

Mr. Doty will not assume responsibility for the conduct of litigation. Counsel is to make all decisions relating to the conduct of and strategy and procedure in litigation, and is to have sole responsibility for advising counsel's clients.

Municipal Bond Expert Witness Functions: If requested by counsel, and Mr. Doty agrees to do so, as outlined above, as an independent industry expert, Mr. Doty will endeavor to form expert opinions, if possible, and in that connection, to prepare reports, affidavits, declarations or other documentation and materials on questions identified by counsel relating to the litigation.

In forming his expert opinions, Mr. Doty works as an independent expert. He will not function as an advocate. Familiarity with and Use of Authoritative Market Guidance and Literature: Given Mr. Doty's extensive and active participation from the mid-1970s to the present with national municipal bond market organizations representing issuers, bond, underwriter, disclosure and issuer counsel, and investors, Mr. Doty is especially conversant with authoritative and recognized market guidance provided by market organizations and market literature published by respected commentators. Mr. Doty applies this knowledge in his litigation consulting and expert witness engagements.

Reports: Mr. Doty prepares well-organized reports, declarations and affidavits in which Mr. Doty identifies and responds to, and discusses, specific questions identified by counsel. Mr. Doty's reports tend to be longer and more specific and detailed than may be the case for certain other experts. Mr. Doty cites testimony and documentary evidence and applicable market guidance and literature. Mr. Doty discusses the relevance of that wealth of information in the specific context of the subject matter at issue in the litigation. His reports contain detailed tables of contents, well-organized headings and subheadings, paragraph identifiers, thorough discussion of prevailing municipal bond market customs, practices and standards of care, detailed citations to applicable supporting market guidance and literature and relevant testimony and evidence, and as required by judicial rules, lists of documents considered and his curriculum vitae, recent testimony and publications.

Testimony: If requested by counsel, and Mr. Doty agrees to do so, Mr. Doty will provide testimony regarding such appropriate, reasonable and accurate expert opinions as Mr. Doty is able to form; provided, unless permitted, counsel shall not ask Mr. Doty to express legal opinions within the jurisdiction of the Court or other tribunal or to invade the jurisdiction of the jury.

Relationships: Mr. Doty considers legal counsel to be his clients, and contracts solely and directly with counsel. He does not provide services, advice, information or opinions to, and does not form consulting relationships with, counsels' clients.

Market Guidance: Over the course of his career, Mr. Doty has served in key drafting roles, working with industry committees, in the preparation of recognized and authoritative market disclosure and due diligence guidance published by key issuer, investor and legal organizations in the municipal securities market, such as the Government Finance Officers Association's DISCLOSURE GUIDELINES FOR STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT SECURITIES, a number of the National Federation of Municipal Analysts' BEST PRACTICES and WHITE PAPERS, and the American Bar Association/National Association of Bond Lawyers' DISCLOSURE ROLES OF COUNSEL IN STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT SECURITIES OFFERINGS (first edition).
